

Welcome to dōTERRA™

Tried and Trusted

We live in a time when options and ideas for improved well-being are readily accessible. With the many choices available, the question often becomes, who do I trust?

The answer can be found in personal experience. You can be confident in your approach as you discover simple, safe, and empowering solutions.

As you personally experience the powerful benefits of essential oils, you will understand why dōTERRA™ is revolutionising the way families manage their well-being.

CPTG Certified Pure Tested Grade™ Essential Oils

When you experience the refreshing, uplifting smell of pine trees, the calming scent of lavender, or the invigorating smell of lemons, you are experiencing essential oils—powerful, natural scents.

In nature, essential oils are found in roots, stems, leaves, resins, flowers, and rinds of the plant. Essential oils help the plant adapt to its ever-changing environment—protecting against threats and providing beneficial properties.

When the plant's compounds are distilled for purity, potency, and efficacy, they become an additional tool for maintaining a family's well-being.

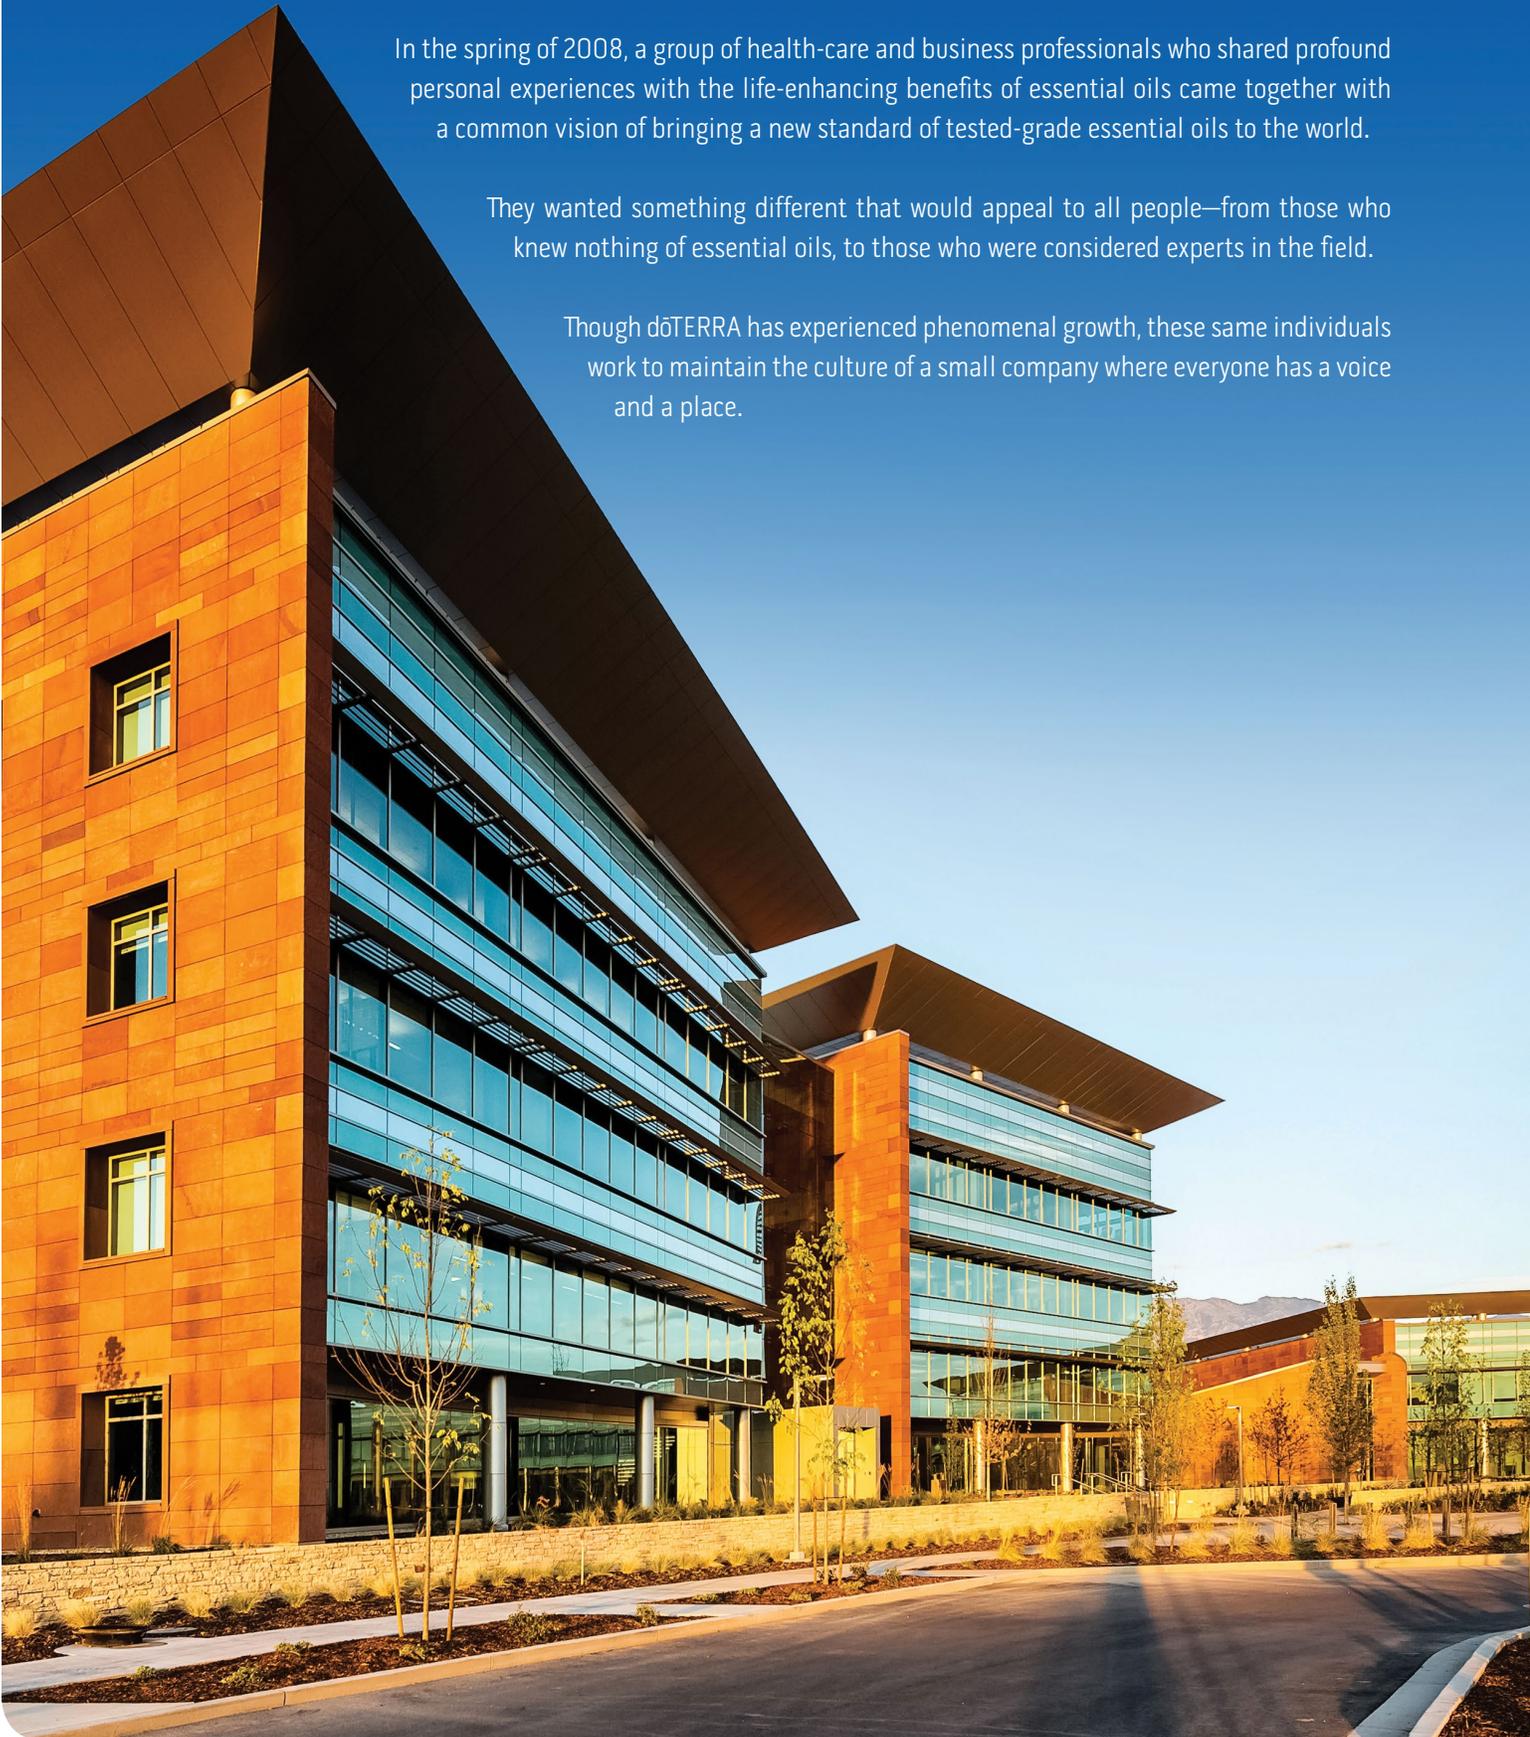

The dōTERRA™ Vision

The name “dōTERRA” is a Latin derivative meaning “gift of the Earth.”

In the spring of 2008, a group of health-care and business professionals who shared profound personal experiences with the life-enhancing benefits of essential oils came together with a common vision of bringing a new standard of tested-grade essential oils to the world.

They wanted something different that would appeal to all people—from those who knew nothing of essential oils, to those who were considered experts in the field.

Though dōTERRA has experienced phenomenal growth, these same individuals work to maintain the culture of a small company where everyone has a voice and a place.

Key Facts

- 2008 - CPTG Certified Pure Tested Grade™ becomes a symbol of the unrivaled dōTERRA™ quality assurance process.
- 2010 - The dōTERRA Healing Hands initiative is established - a philanthropic effort to bring healing and hope to the world.
- 2014 - Through Co-Impact Sourcing™, dōTERRA provides the highest quality essential oils while economically empowering artisans and communities where essential oils are sourced.
- 2018 - Over 5,000,000 Wellness Advocates are revolutionising the way families manage their well-being through simple, safe, and empowering solutions.

As part of our vision to bring a new standard of tested-grade essential oils to the world, dōTERRA is invested in moving the science of essential oils forward. This is accomplished in many different ways and is managed by a strong Research and Development team within dōTERRA.

This department consists of PhD scientists and experienced professionals that gather scientific and clinical research, identify research needs, design and carry out studies, and prepare those studies for presentation to others. To carry out these ongoing studies, dōTERRA has and continues to build relationships with research hospitals, universities, and other research organisations.

The end goal is to better understand how essential oils work—how the components in an essential oil interact, how essential oils interact with cells, how they affect people, and how they can improve our home and other environments.

These studies are typically presented at our annual Global and Europe Conventions, then made available through other avenues. They help inform, enrich, and benefit dōTERRA Wellness Advocates and Wholesale Customers on the best uses of essential oils for the greatest good.

An Application for Every Situation

Whether you're taking essential oils internally, enjoying the aromatic benefits, or applying topically, essential oils empower individuals to naturally maintain their well-being and the well-being of their family with the utmost confidence.

dōTERRA™ offers a selection of single essential oils and a variety of specialty blends. Each essential oil contains unique benefits, while essential oil blends create a synergistic effect that boosts the potential benefits even more.

In addition to the essential oils and proprietary essential oil blends, you can also experience essential oils in many common products. In fact, you have probably already experienced some essential oils—wintergreen in chewing gum, melaleuca in hair products, and peppermint in toothpaste.

dōTERRA™ continually seeks new and innovative ways to incorporate the value of essential oils in products that you and your family use.

- Skin care
- Hair care
- Spa products
- Wellness supplements
- Home and cleaning
- Weight management

A Blend of the Traditional and Modern

When it comes to your well-being and the well-being of your family, you want to know for certain that what you're giving them is both safe and effective. When it comes to essential oils, that means a blend of traditional and modern approaches.

dōTERRA™ uses a global network of farmers and growers to source their essential oils. Utilising generations of knowledge, these growers know exactly when to harvest the plants, and which specific parts of the plants to harvest in order to maximise both the purity and potency of essential oils.

It's not just the harvesting of essential oils that is critical. You also have to understand the distillation process—even the smallest detail can affect the composition of an essential oil. That's why at dōTERRA, we place our trust in sources that have perfected the process of generations of artisans that have passed down their knowledge and wisdom.

The dōTERRA™ commitment to quality goes beyond proper sourcing of essential oils. It also takes into account modern practices of testing to ensure purity, potency, and consistency. Using cutting-edge technologies and world-renowned chemists who specialise in the analysis and identification of aromatic compounds, dōTERRA tests each batch of essential oil to make sure that you are receiving the purest and highest quality oil every time.

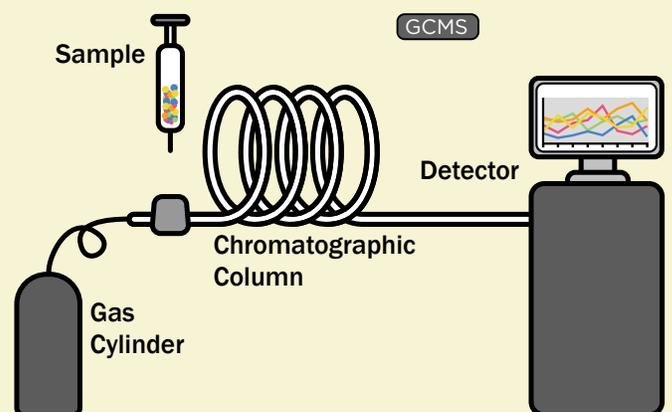

The variety of tests that dōTERRA uses are a part of the CPTG Certified Pure Tested Grade™ quality protocol. When an oil is deemed worthy of the CPTG status, you can know with confidence that it is pure, potent, and effective.

dōTERRA partners with chemists, biological and microbiological scientists, botanists, and medical professionals to create a comprehensive understanding necessary for proper sourcing, analysis, and use of essential oils.

*Gas Chromatography and Mass Spectrometry Analysis (GC/MS)

The tests included in the CPTG protocol include:

- Organoleptic testing
- Mass Spectrometry*
- Gas Chromatography*
- Microbial testing
- Fourier Transform Infrared Spectroscopy (FTIR)
- Chirality testing
- Isotopic analysis
- Heavy metal testing (as needed)

Simple, Safe, and Empowering Solutions

Every person develops unique individual experiences as they use essential oils. Essential oils have positively impacted the lives of thousands of people in many ways.

You may have already heard some of the touching stories from a Wellness Advocate, Wholesale Customer, or someone else you know who uses essential oils.

As you begin having personal experiences with essential oils, you will want to learn more about their benefits, how to use essential oils, and potentially how to build your own business. dōTERRA™ is focused on providing the education you are looking for through our website doterra.com.

dōTERRA[®] cō·impact SOURCING™

We recognise the many other gifts essential oils allow us to enjoy, as well as the responsibility to pay those gifts forward.

Through a strategy called “Co-Impact Sourcing,” dōTERRA is working to improve lives and communities throughout the world. Many of the essential oils offered by dōTERRA are sourced in developing countries, where the growers and distillers are often at the mercy of third parties. Co-Impact Sourcing helps create coalitions of growers and distillers that eliminate the need for those third parties. Thus, local communities are receiving fair and timely payments that not only support their crops and harvest, but also have a direct, immediate impact on the community as well. dōTERRA works with these coalitions to provide the resources, tools, and training necessary to ensure a long-lasting partnership.

In addition to the business side of Co-Impact Sourcing, dōTERRA works to improve the quality of life for the families living in these communities through the dōTERRA Healing Hands initiative. An international, registered non-profit organisation, Healing Hands is committed to improving lives and offering hope to millions around the world.

Healing Hands has been involved in many projects, including the following:

- Micro-credit loans providing renewable funding for entrepreneurs in developing communities
- Clean water wells and programmes
- Building and revitalising schools and clinics
- Medical equipment and resources for hospitals and clinics
- Education on hygiene and health

Our Healing Hands initiatives seek to bring healing and hope to the world as we work to make possible lives free of disease and poverty, ultimately teaching people everywhere to be self reliant.

Healing Hands is involved in many different service projects worldwide. Legacy donations of $100,000 have been given to both Piura, Peru; and Chiquimula, Guatemala; to create new micro-credit loan funds. Such loans provide renewable funding for entrepreneurs in the community. Other humanitarian projects funded by the Healing Hands initiative include building materials donated to families in the Philippines after Typhoon Haiyan, and constructing a new water system in Haiti, which provides villagers with clean water they do not have to boil. Also actively engaged in education and medical help, Healing Hands has helped revitalise and build schools in Guatemala and Haiti. For a medical centre in Ghana badly in need of supplies, medical equipment and supplies were donated. In Bolivia, Healing Hands helped build an expansion of the Jalsuri medical centre to better support the growing needs of the clinic.
